Focused for Work

According to LinkedIn's "Workplace Learning Report," soft skills are the No. 1 priority for talent development. Further, a LinkedIn study found that hiring managers indicated their company's productivity was limited due to a lack of candidates' soft skills. "The No. 1 problem with today's young workforce is the soft skills gap," "It runs across the entire workforce – among workers with technical skills that are in great demand, every bit as much as workers without technical skills." Soft skills are key to individuals' success in the workplace and are a competitive differentiator in the marketplace. The Focused For Work Module was developed to provide solutions for individuals to be prepared for the workplace. Included are People Skills, Essential Soft Skills, Interviewing Skills, Critical Thinking Skills, Values/Character Development and Leadership Skills.
